e-MatriX Vertical

Vertical fireplaces are growing in popularity in Europe and are real eye-catchers in homes, penthouses, exclusive restaurants or hotel lobbies. The so-called “see-through” variants in particular are very popular because they make it possible to connect multiple spaces in a visually appealing way. With our new e-MatriX Vertical we are responding to this clear market demand and because it is 100% electric, we also offer a unique proposition. Thanks to our patented water vapor technology, we are the only fireplace manufacturer in the market to offer a fully-fledged vertical see-through fireplace. Add to this the lack of an exhaust need and the application possibilities are endless!

These models come standard with:

- Electric additional heating unit
- Faber app

e-BoX

The electric Faber e-BoX series has been developed especially for true fire connoisseurs who are looking for a complete and 100% future-proof alternative to an atmospheric gas or wood fire, and who value a good price-quality ratio. The new Faber e-BoX series provides a unique solution for the full enjoyment of a swirling, atmospheric fire, without the traditional limitations that may be associated with a built-in gas or wood fire. For example, limitations because of the living environment (city), apartment blocks, the lack of a connection to the gas grid or a chimney, or because there is no room to build in a fire.

These models come standard with:

- Electric additional heating unit
- Bluetooth remote control

MatriX Hybrid Fires

Our hybrid MatriX ambient fires are electrically supported using LED lighting; comparable with hybrid cars. This low-energy light source has been applied to partially replace the gas flames and to enrich the glowing fire. This unique 'play' between gas and light, known as 'Hybrid Pro Lighting' (HPL) gives rich flames whose intensity and experience beats any standard gas-fired fireplace. What's more, this HPL module can reduce gas consumption, CO2 emissions and heat transfer by more than 50%.

These models come standard with:

- Faber app
- Depth frame 50 mm

Gas Built In

Faber built-in gas fires are a statement in themselves. First and foremost because of a fabulously burning fire and the most beautiful finish with life-like decorative logs or modern pebbles. In addition because of the top-quality choice of materials that guarantee years of safe and problem-free enjoyment. Particularly when you operate the fire remotely with a control unit or from your own smartphone.

Free standing

A freestanding fire is (often literally) the focal point of a room. A place to gather round! Obviously you simply expect the best in every respect. Faber freestanding fires are for demanding enthusiasts. The fire effect is comparable to that of our beloved gas inset fires; full flames at any height, decorated with lifelike decorative logs or white pebbles. Always simple to operate and equipped with the latest technology. The design impresses with its simplicity and careful finish and suits a range of interior designs.

Outdoor

Faber outdoor fires enrich any patio or garden. First of all with the characteristic, lively Faber flames that you can see from all sides through the large glass surface. Flames that are designed with Faber’s craftsmanship and quality, appreciated so much by those who love our inset fires. The designs speak of considered simplicity and class, never dominate, but are there to be admired at any time. Faber outdoor fires work on gas and have automatic ignition, so operation requires little attention and the fires work without any hint of a smell.
